

BREANNA STIEFVATER

Breanna Stiefvater is currently a dance teacher at Central New York Academy of Dance in Rome, NY. With extensive competition dance experience, Breanna has trained with countless well-regarded choreographers. After her schooling with Danceworks studio (Utica, NY), she continued her dance career at Siena College, where she was on the collegiate dance team. Breanna also founded her own club for dance at Siena (Passion Dance Technique) and led several other dance clubs on campus.

As a postgraduate, Breanna joined the Comettes Dance Team and Utica City Dance Crew, dancing with both teams for two years until her retirement in 2026. Breanna is a judge and staff member for Starstruck Dance Challenge, with whom she travels across the east coast working with and teaching dancers. Breanna is grateful to continue working with Starstruck and teaching at CNYAOD this fall with new teaching opportunities growing on the horizon.
